HSG Facility Management

Production and processes: We offer more.

Value-creation partner for innovative services.

Industrial plants are complex sites. Where many interacting primary and secondary processes take place. In the context of globalised competition a company must nowadays invest its full force in the quality of its products and so in its core mission. To ensure that processes running in tandem with production stand up to such scrutiny, Apleona HSG Facility Management offers its support as a reliable value-creation partner. We are the central point of contact for all technical services, with requirements of whatever kind. But we differ from conventional Facility Management service providers. Apleona HSG Facility Management can do more. We don't just focus on the details, but also have a strong grasp of the overall picture. We recognise interfaces in production that are critical to success and apply our technical expertise to develop integrated site solutions, making a key contribution here. This comprehensive service allows us to open up valuable optimisation and synergy potential for our clients.

Realising Potential.

Industrial services:

Our tried and tested start-up processes ensure smooth cooperation from the very beginning. We observe the industrial production environments overall, and our services ensure sufficient scope for customised solutions with individual production components. Together with our clients we identify the exact service level that your business needs.

In this framework we use our own resources to a large extent, so we are able to quickly respond to any change in production conditions. We call this our "flexi-service".

Maintenance:

Maintenance solutions from Apleona HSG Facility Management take account of the entire life cycle of machinery over the course of demanding industrial manufacture. This way we can adopt a proactive approach before equipment breaks down. We don't just have our eye on individual components, but above all their interfaces with other systems. Apleona HSG Facility Management is a high-end service provider. This means for example we maintain the air-conditioning at an industrial site just as carefully as its highly complex production robots. So our business partners can trust in our comprehensive service throughout their production processes on a modular basis.

Sensitive environments:

Whether cleanrooms in the semiconductor or pharmaceuticals industry, data centres in global organisations, R&D departments of car manufacturers or even operating theatres in hospitals – there are many fields where it is necessary to act not only responsibly, but above all with great sensitivity. Apleona HSG Facility Management is happy to take on this high level of responsibility. Every one of our qualified specialists is aware of the demands made on them and their impact on the core business of our clients and the life of society at all times. Our clients can therefore put their full trust in our company, even in highly sensitive environments. We additionally offer our business partners the legal certainty required here.
