Apleona Obtains Facility Management Contract for Freudenberg Group Locations in Germany

Apleona HSG Facility Management has taken on the technical and infrastructure facility management at ten German locations of the global technology company Freudenberg. The portfolio under management includes properties at the company's headquarters in Weinheim, Baden-Württemberg, and nine production and office sites with a total of 228 buildings and 690,000 square meters of floor space. The service agreement was concluded on April 1 and will run for three years with the option of a two-year extension. The parties have agreed not to disclose the contract volume.

The order gives Apleona HSG Facility Management responsibility for the maintenance and repair of building services facilities, warranty management, and in some areas commercial cleaning and maintenance of paved areas. This includes the optimization of performance specifications and processes in facility management and the CAFM tools used. The aim is to increase the quality and cost efficiency of location management in the long term.

Freudenberg is a global technology company that sustainably supports its customers and society with pioneering innovations. Together with partners, customers, and scientists, the Freudenberg Group develops leading technical products and excellent solutions and services for more than 30 market segments and thousands of applications: seals, vibrational components, non-woven fabrics, filters, specialty chemistry, medical technology products, IT services, and state-of-the-art cleaning products.
